NATALIA GIANNANGELI

A native Argentinean, Natalia Giannangeli, who has had a great trajectory in the fashion world, settled in Miami in 2016. Yearning for new experiences, she began working with flowers.

To her, floral designs represent all the emotions humans experience throughout their lifetime: love, sadness, joy, and everything in between. In 2018, she became a floral designer. Now, Natalia works to bring nature to all aspects of life, drawing her inspiration from Japanese culture. She uses more than the flowers themselves, utilizing the stems, leaves, and roots to capture the shapes and movements present in nature, showing its perfection and imperfections. Each set she designs presents her with new challenges, but her work reflects the canvas in which humanity paints its experiences. Every inch of her work interacts with the world around it; she uses space to her advantage, letting nature take precedent over the confines of artificiality. Natalia leaves the viewer with her design, allowing them to lose themselves in the beauty of nature.
